The Olympics and Beyond: Summer Intensive Arabic or Chinese Language Study at Beloit

The STARTALK scholarships are competitive scholarships for talented high school students interested in studying Arabic or Chinese in summer 2008 through Beloit College's Center for Language Studies (CLS), a nationally recognized intensive language program.

By allowing you to accelerate your study of these critical languages, the STARTALK scholarship in combination with a CLS Grant (a $6,120 value) will help you achieve higher levels of proficiency more quickly and, as a result, provide you with the chance to pursue more meaningful study, in the areas of Asian or Middle Eastern Studies. Our residential program features superb instructors, 26 hours per week of classroom study, an integrated approach to language and culture, and a variety of cultural activities.

We are extremely excited about this program and are looking for high-achieving students interested in taking advantage of this great opportunity to study these critical languages. The eight-week session runs from June 14 to August 8. Students completing the program will receive three units of Beloit College credit. The cost for room and board is not covered by these scholarships.

Students must be at least 17 years old to qualify for a STARTALK scholarship. Qualified students may apply directly for the scholarship through the CLS online application at www.summerlanguages.com. A minimum grade point average of 3.0 is required. The deadline for applications has been extended to April 25, 2008. Award recipients will be announced on a rolling basis. Applications submitted after the deadline will still be considered if funds are available.
